

BIN CHANGES starting in August

Monash is changing its bin collection service from August this year, moving to a weekly collection for food and garden waste and a fortnightly collection for landfill rubbish waste.

Council's decision follows its largest ever consultation, with more than 7000 contributions in an online and phone survey, pop-up information sessions in person and online, and through phone calls and emails.

You told us you that you were concerned about nappies, medical waste and smell and that you need more space in your recycling bins. We've used your feedback to design the new waste services to ensure that additional support, if required, is available to assist households with specific waste needs.

A larger landfill bin or a second small bin will be available at no extra cost for households with:

- » Two or more children in nappies
- » Households with members who have medical conditions that produce excess waste and specific waste items
- » Larger households of six or more who are in financial hardship.

Many of you told us that the recycling (yellow lid) bin was full regularly, so to assist you with your recycling and waste diversion efforts, we've further reduced the cost of an additional recycling bin to $65 per year; a saving of more than $150 off the original pricing.

We'll also send you a sample pack of compostable liners for your caddies, as using these has shown to greatly reduce smells and insects.

If you've lost your caddy, or don't have one, contact Council and we'll organise a replacement.

All Monash households will receive an information pack prior to the change, including a letter from the Mayor, the 2022-23 waste collection calendar, a guide to recycling and an A-Z list of recycling in Monash. QR codes and web links to easily find helpful information available on our website will also be included.

INVESTING IN OUR CITY

2022/23 Draft Budget

It's budget time of year again and we're planning to commit more than $88.7million, our biggest ever Capital Works spend, on delivering critical projects that are a high priority for our community.

Key projects include:

- » Installing public toilets at Holmesglen and Galbally Reserves, and designing a public toilet for Napier Reserve
- » Construction of the Glen Waverley Sports Hub Tennis Facility
- » Pavilion upgrade to Mulgrave Reserve and design work for Mount Waverley Reserve pavilion
- » Playspace upgrades
- » Extension of the Bogong Car Park for replacement and additional car parking in Glen Waverley
- » Exploration of the Dorrington Drive Early Years Hub (Mount Waverley) which would offer 132 additional kindergarten spaces, Maternal and Child Health services and a uniquely designed playgroup area for children with additional needs.

We're also proposing important initiatives including:

- » A disposable nappy recycling pilot program, which creates materials such as cat litter from used nappies instead of sending them to landfill
- » Artwork supporting Council's Reconciliation Action Plan, which seeks to explore, develop and embed strategies to advance reconciliation
- » Pilot program from Mulgrave library supporting children with autism to enjoy and interact with our library service
- » Feasibility study into a Seniors Exercise Park
- » Heavily discounting the cost of a second recycling bin to help residents divert more waste from landfill.

As we ease slowly out of the depths of the pandemic, this year's draft budget looks towards resuming normal business with a strong focus on the future, delivering critical programs and projects that are a high priority for Monash residents and businesses.

Despite planning to increase our rates by 1.75% in line with the Victorian Government's rate cap, Monash Council remains the Council with the lowest rates per capita in the state and the lowest of metropolitan Councils on a rate per assessment basis.

MESSAGE FROM Mayor Stuart James

At the April Council meeting, all Councillors unanimously agreed to change the bin collection service to a weekly service for food and garden waste and fortnightly for landfill. Dealing with waste is core Council business, and this will be one of the most significant changes we have ever made.

Whenever we ask our community what they believe are the biggest challenges we face, addressing climate change and our impact on the environment is always one of the top issues. Change isn't always easy, but that shouldn't stop us doing what's right. The Victorian Auditor-General's Office estimates that Victoria will run out of landfill space by 2026. We simply can't keep digging new holes in the ground and burying waste, out of sight, out of mind. I don't want my children growing up in a planet destroyed by climate change, and I know that many of you feel the same. Reducing the amount of waste we send to be buried in the ground is one way we can individually play our part in looking after our environment and helping to address climate change.

Other efforts to divert waste are also underway, such as partnering with a company to trial nappy recycling and turning used nappies into things like cat litter.

A key focus of mine during my time on Council has been on delivering new services and facilities for families. We've re-built around a dozen playgrounds over the past two years and my children have thoroughly enjoyed going on trips to check them out. In the southern part of the municipality, we've just opened an amazing new playground at Carlson Reserve, which is well worth the visit. Construction is underway on three exciting new designs at Cambridge Street, Progress Park and Westerfield Drive; they should be open in the next few weeks. We've also completed the design work for new public toilets at Galbally reserve, with funding in our draft 22/23 budget to finally construct these highly anticipated facilities. And if you haven't yet taken the time to visit the playground there, put that on your list – it's definitely a favourite.

After two years of being unable to gather and pay our respects, it was a privilege to attend several moving services in Monash to honour our ANZACs, their service and sacrifice. It is vitally important that we never forget the legacy those brave men and women have left for us, and equally important that this is passed on to future generations. Lest We Forget.

EARLY YEARS HUB for Mount Waverley

A third Early Years Hub will be built in Dorrington Drive, Mount Waverley, on the site of the former Waverley Gymnastics Centre.

The proposed two-room facility supports the roll-out of the State Government's three-year-old kindergarten program and provides:

- » An additional 132 kindergarten spaces
- » A uniquely designed area for playgroups that provides for children with additional needs such as Autism Spectrum Disorder, by including an outdoor education area with a sensory focus
- » A bespoke immunisation area for children with additional needs who are unable to attend the general community sessions

- » A purpose designed area for the Maternal and Child Health (MCH) Sleep and Settling Service, which would include the co-location of the MCH lactation program
- » A community space for the provision of programs such as Family Services.

Council will seek funding towards the delivery of this project with the State Government, indicating interest in financially supporting the new hub.

Further design work will be undertaken over the coming months and Council will work with the local community and nearby Huntingtower School.

WAVERLEY PARK handover to Council

The first stage of the handover of the maintenance of Waverley Park from Mirvac to Council starts in June.

As Mirvac winds up their development of the estate, we'll take over maintenance of facilities and amenities in the estate.

This includes playgrounds, public toilets, the skate park, landscaping (grass and garden areas, road reserves, streets and trees), barbecues and bin enclosures and wetlands.

We're currently working with Mirvac on a smooth and staged handover over the next few months.

The maintenance of the Waverley Park Stadium and football ground will remain with Hawthorn Football Club. Residents of the estate and property owners living elsewhere have been advised of the handover and several information sessions have been held to explain the handover.

MULGRAVE LIBRARY open for business

Grab your book bags – the new and improved Mulgrave Library is back open for business.

The neighbourhood library re-opened last month, following an upgrade project that has seen the library space nearly double its previous size.

Premier Daniel Andrews joined Mayor Stuart James in officially opening the improved facility.

The upgraded library offers several improvements, including an after-hours book return chute; a larger book collection, including materials in languages other than English, a quiet reading nook and a contemporary e-cafe and kitchenette area, shared with the users of the Wellington Reserve Community Centre.

The upgrade followed a feasibility study that recommended consolidating and growing the library service by offering more services and increasing opening hours, as well as expanding the library space. After consulting, Council was asked to provide more space while retaining the appeal of an intimate library.

Council received a Victorian Government Living Libraries Infrastructure Program grant of $117,500 towards the upgrade.

ACCESSIBLE Monash

Throughout last year's lockdowns, many of us took to walking around the neighbourhood a lot more than usual. Council's Disability Advisory Committee held discussions on the small changes each of us can make for a more accessible and safer place for everyone, especially for those with an accessibility issue.

There are a lot of everyday objects that might not seem like a big deal but can be a major obstacle and hazard for people with disabilities, parents with prams or kids on bikes and scooters.

Our top tips for a more accessible Monash are:

- » Keep footpaths clear for pedestrians, if you have a short driveway don't park your car so it blocks part of the footpath - even if you are only stopping for a short time. Blocking the footpath with a vehicle is illegal and penalties may apply
- » Check the footpath around your property for overhanging trees and branches
- » Make sure any branches placed on your nature strip for green waste collection are not sticking out onto the footpath

- » If you see a bin has fallen across a path, pick it up and place it on the nature strip.

Together, we can help make Monash a safer and more accessible place.

Call ☎ 9518 3555 or use Snap Send Solve app or 🌐 www.snapsendsolve.com to let us know if there is something dangerous affecting footpath accessibility.

A NEW NAME FOR 100th birthday

In recognition of its 100-year history, we'll be changing the name of the Monash Seminar and Training Centre to the Oakleigh Chambers.

The building, at 1A Atherton Road Oakleigh, first opened in 1921 as the Oakleigh Borough Council Chambers and was called the Oakleigh City Council Chambers from 1927 until 1994. The building was then renamed the Monash Seminar and Training Centre after the amalgamation of the City of Oakleigh and the City of Waverley created Monash City Council in 1994.

The building served as the primary Council meeting venue for the former City of Oakleigh and was also host to the 50th (in 1941) and 100th (in 1991) anniversary celebrations of the City of Oakleigh.

To mark the centenary of this much-loved Monash landmark, we'll celebrate the building's 100th birthday with a free public exhibition on 18-19 June.

A new coat of paint and other general cosmetic improvements also mark this historic occasion.

History Monash created the exhibition, which will feature a formal opening reception and two days of public viewing. Guides will be on hand to explain the significant features of the heritage-protected building, including artefacts from the former City of Oakleigh, and a PowerPoint presentation of old photographs.

COUNCILLOR NEWS

Cr Josh Fergeus

As we approach the midway point of the 2020-2024 Council term, it's been busy as ever. A number of residents continue to approach me about lighting and safety concerns relating to the Scotchmans Creek Pedestrian Tunnel. The Tunnel, owned by VicRoads, links several beautiful areas running along the Creek, and is well utilised by people walking and cycling. However, many residents find it to be gloomy, wet and not all that inviting. I have won Council's support to write to VicRoads asking them to urgently attend to these much-needed upgrades.

Continuing on the theme of green open space, Council's Open Space Strategy identifies Clayton as having a significant deficit in this regard. I've been advocating for the creation of two new parks in Clayton to rectify this, and I'm pleased to say that Council has recently adopted this call as part of our lobbying of State MPs and candidates in the lead up to the Victorian

State election in November. If you live, work or play in Clayton I encourage you to contact your local MP to add your support.

You may have seen that Council has commenced community consultation on an exciting new cycling connection. We're seeking to link the Scotchmans Creek Trail and the Djerring Trail via a 1.4km north-south connection running through Oakleigh. This is part of Council's increasing focus on active transport, facilitating safe and efficient travel through the municipality for people who want to walk or cycle. I encourage you to check out the concept proposal online and have your say.

Around Australia and the world, we continue to see the devastating impacts of global warming unfold. India recorded the hottest March on record earlier this year followed by a prolonged heatwave, while scientists have warned that climate change could spark the next major pandemic as it becomes the biggest risk factor for the emergence of new diseases. Council has acknowledged the need to drastically reduce emissions and limit global warming to 1.5° I will continue to work on your behalf to ensure we do everything we can to reduce our shared climate impact.

The next chapter for Kingsway

When I was a kid growing up in Glen Waverley in the 1980s, Kingsway was a very different place. There was just a couple of restaurants, the strip was predominantly retail and there was no problem finding a car park after 5pm. The Glen Shopping Centre did not exist – it was just a Safeway and a handful of shops.

The Kingsway that has evolved over the past 25 years is unrecognisable from those earlier times. Kingsway is now a bustling food and entertainment hub. There is vibrant apartment living and The Glen has carved out a niche as a boutique shopping centre in Australia's most competitive retail catchment area.

Some might yearn for the old charm of a quieter and simpler Glen Waverley. I don't. Glen Waverley today offers something for everyone with a promise of more to come. But it does seem that Kingsway's evolution has plateaued in the last five years. There is no question that it needs new investment and enhancement.

Council had committed to build a new 1,000 space car park and a $10-20 million transformation of Kingsway to turn it into a pedestrian focused outdoor dining area.

However, unfortunately these plans have been on ice for two years since the State Government decided to acquire the Montclair Avenue car park for the Glen Waverley Suburban Rail Loop (SRL) station. This was where Council's new car park had been planned and was about to begin construction. There is no question that the SRL is a gamechanger which will significantly shape Glen Waverley's future.

But there are complications which need to be worked through to get the most from this project – including where the extra car parking needed for Glen Waverley will now go and how best to integrate the new SRL station with the existing train station and wider precinct.

Council has been trying to engage with the State Government for the past two years on these matters. We are particularly concerned about the effect of the planned closure of Coleman Parade to through traffic.

In our view this is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to set the course for Glen Waverley for the next 50 years. It is imperative that we get this right and that no corners are cut.

Expect to hear more about this in the coming months if the State Government and the SRL authority do not lift their game.

JACK EDWARDS RESERVE PAVILION plans taking shape

A new $16.4million pavilion and grandstand at Jack Edwards Reserve is a step closer, following a State Government commitment of $4million in funding.

Council has also committed up to $8.2million towards the development, leaving a shortfall of about $4.2million. Full funding of the project is required before it can go ahead.

Plans for the proposed upgrade include a new pavilion on the western boundary with 500 undercover grandstand seats, a 200m² multi-purpose space for community use, and compliant amenities to accommodate an increase in football participation, particularly by female teams.

The reserve is home to National Premier League (NPL) team the Oakleigh Cannons, which has been working with Council for many years to fulfil its vision for enhanced facilities.

The proposed new pavilion and grandstand supports the club's goals to continue competing in the NPL, to cater for a female team, and to host men's and women's double-headers.

The plans include a multi-purpose space that would be managed by Council so the football club's needs would be met on training and match days, and broader community groups would benefit at other times in the use of this space.

In September last year, the State Government announced it would contribute $4 million towards the project.

Council will make an application to Sport and Recreation Victoria (SRV) for matching funding towards the project and will pursue extra contributions from other groups including State and Federal governments and the Oakleigh Cannons Football Club to allow the proposed project to proceed.

WE'RE READY TO START intersection upgrade

As part of the Glen Waverley Sports Hub project, we'll be carrying out upgrade works at the intersection of Jells Road and Waverley Road in Glen Waverley.

We've awarded the construction tender to Appia Pty Ltd, who'll be undertaking the works from June until September.

The works will involve installation and commissioning of traffic signals; civil works, including road and pedestrian pavements; asphalt works; line marking and signage; tree removal and minor landscape works.

Works will be conducted Monday to Friday, between 7.30am to 4.30pm. Some weekend work may be required at times, starting after 9am.

We'll have traffic and pedestrian management in place during construction and we'll make every effort to minimise disruption during the works.

Funding of $1million was allocated towards the intersection works from the Glen Waverley Sports Hub Budget of $26.7million, jointly funded by the North East Link Program ($21m) and Council ($5.77m).

MONASH FRIENDS of Vemasse

There are numerous reasons why many Australians have become personally involved in Timor-Leste's struggle to become a thriving independent nation. One overriding factor is that Timor-Leste is our nearest neighbour and one of the poorest countries in the world. Many Australians would like to stretch out the hand of friendship.

To provide a framework for friendship to exist, the idea of Friendship Groups was formed. They are mostly connected from a Victorian Council to a community in Timor-Leste. An agreement of friendship and support was signed between Monash Council and the Vemasse Belun [local committee] in 2009 and this has recently been renewed.

Since this time Monash Friends of Vemasse (MFV) have supported the Senior High School by helping with payment of volunteer staff, scholarships for students, reconditioned computers, and other essential items. During COVID 19 hand sanitiser and masks were provided, and after recent floods, it has given support to Vemasse students caught up in Dili.

As important as financial support is, friendship is considered to be the top priority. To this end, members of MFV have visited Vemasse on a yearly basis and have become firm friends with local teachers. This close friendship has meant that interaction between MFV and the Vemasse community has included their local Community Co-operative, a very valuable development.

MFV has witnessed an improvement in the wellbeing of the people of Vemasse during their time of friendship, which is heartening.

We welcome new members and are happy to offer guest speakers to interested groups.

THRIVE BY FIVE campaign

The Thrive by Five campaign, to support high-quality, universally accessible and affordable early learning and childcare, has been endorsed by Council.

Letters from Council seeking bipartisan support for the campaign have been sent to the Prime Minister Scott Morrison, Leader of the Opposition Anthony Albanese, Minister for Education and Youth Alan Tudge, the Shadow Minister for Early Childhood Education and Youth Amanda Rishworth and local Federal Members of Parliament.

The campaign calls for reform of the early learning and childcare system to drive workforce participation, particularly for women, and reduce out-of-pocket costs for working families using childcare.

Old ways, new ways

Works from three collections sit together to consider the ways that First Nations photography makes links between times gone by and the present, placing traditions within contemporary practice, speaking across generations and through passages of time.
